

USG TECHNICAL SERVICES DISCLAIMER

USG appreciates the opportunity to provide assistance to our customers with design challenges when using or installing USG products and systems. Please note that any advice offered is subject to the following disclaimers:

- 1. Advice Provided Solely For Customer's Project: Any and all opinions and advice ("Advice") provided by USG is prepared solely for (a) the individual or entity, and any affiliated individuals or entities, requesting Advice; and (b) use on the Customer's construction project that is subject to the request for Advice (the "Project").
- 2. Written Consent Required: USG's written consent is required before (a) Customer uses or relies upon any Advice from USG for purposes other than the Project for which the Advice was provided; (b) Customer discloses any Advice provided by USG to any third party; and (c) any third party uses or relies upon USG Advice for any reason.
- 3. Professional Consultation: Advice provided by USG is not a substitute for professional engineering design tailored to your specific project and its variables. Further, Engineering standards and best practices particular to your Project may evolve over time and affect the usefulness of Advice provided by USG. A qualified professional engineer is recommended to assess your specific circumstances and provide comprehensive guidance. Approval by a licensed design professional or authority having jurisdiction shall be obtained by Customer or the responsible party before commencing work.
- 4. Product Specifications: Before installation, always refer to and follow product installation guidelines, Safety Data Sheets, submittal sheets, and other product documentation, available at www.usg.com. Use of USG products in a way inconsistent with those specifications may materially alter the usefulness or safety of the Advice provided.
- 5. Regulatory Compliance: It is your responsibility to verify that any Advice, including proposed use or installation, complies with the applicable codes, regulations and guidelines. USG cannot guarantee conformity with specific local, state, or federal regulations.
- 6. Assumption of Risk: Any Advice provided is based on the information provided to USG by Customer regarding the Project and intended for informational purposes only. USG cannot guarantee the accuracy, completeness, or applicability to your current situation. Consequently, any reliance on this Advice is at your own risk.
- 7. Limitation of Liability: Any actions taken based on Advice provided by USG are at your own risk and USG disclaims any and all responsibility or liability, directly or indirectly, arising from the implementation of this advice.
- 8. Product Warranty Disclaimer: Any Advice provided does not constitute an additional warranty or contradict or alter any existing warranty on USG products.

By accepting and using this advice, you acknowledge these disclaimers. Please seek additional professional advice for any questions or concerns regarding this advice.
